

FAIC TUTORING PROGRAM

(Sponsored by Saturday Scholars)

WELCOME TO FREE TUTORING PROGRAM IN JAMAICA, QUEENS, NEW YORK

Saturday Scholars (FAIC Tutoring Program) offers parent a 24 hour, precisely focused, six-week tutoring program that is guaranteed to improve your child's reading and math proficiency.

Our program begins by using a research-based model to identify how your child learns and processes information and moves on to develop a strategy designed to overcome obstacles and barriers which block skill development and growth.

Once the initial needs assessment has been completed, we use this information, along with parental input and teacher comments to structure an overall tutoring program which includes:

- ◆ Small group prescriptive skill building
- ◆ Individualized gap assessment and remediation
- ◆ Small group drill and Practice
- ◆ One-on-One tutoring
- ◆ Computer-based assessment and skill building
- ◆ Low student-teacher ratios

We believe that a supportive relationship between a tutor and a student is one of the most critical components in effective learning.

Our tutoring program is designed to make measurable improvements in student performance; therefore, we have one tutor for every six students. By keeping our student-teacher ratio low, students will gain greater access to tutors and therefore receive more individual attention.

Each lesson plan has a clear, evidence-based goal (focus) that includes growth and improved student performance. The improvement is what we want to happen. The program activity and strategy is what we will do to make it happen.

Saturday Scholars Tutoring Program is structured to compliment and not compete with the instruction students receive in their regular school day curriculum. Open communication is maintained between the tutor and the teacher.
